

THE JOURNAL OF THE SOCIETY FOR INDUSTRIAL ARCHEOLOGY
Volume 18, Numbers 1 and 2, 1992

EDITORIAL	3
ARTICLES
Industrial Archeology of American Iron and Steel Robert B. Gordon	5
The Upper Forge at Valley Forge Helen Schenck	19
All Industrial Archeological Survey of the Long Pond Ironworks, West Milford Township, Passaic County, New Jersey Edward S. Rutsch and Brian H. Morrell	40
Vermont's 18th- and 19th-Century Blast Furnace Remains Victor R. Rolando	61
A Revolution in Steel: Mass Production in Pennsylvania, 1867-1901 William Sisson	79
The Development of Modern Blast Furnace Practice: The Monongahela Valley Furnaces of the Carnegie Steel Company, 1872-1913 Joel Sabadasz	94
Men and Tongs: The Belgian Rod Mill at the Washburn Wire Company, East Providence, Rhode Island Thomas E. Leary	106
RESEARCH NOTES
Unearthing Business History: Can Archeology Provide Evidence for Interpreting Management Styles? Edward F. Heite	123
Connecticut Iron and Steel from Black Sea Sands Richard Sanders Allen	129
CONTRIBUTORS	136
COVER: Isometric of Blast Furnace No.1, Duquesne Works, 1990. See Joel Sabadasz, "The Development of Modern Blast Furnace Practice: The Monongahela Valley Furnaces of the Carnegie Steel Company, 1872-1913," pp. 94-105.	