Getting to the Park Hotel from the airport

By bus: There is a bus stop at each terminal of the airport. The blue airport bus will take you to Plaça Catalunya. There is a bus every 15 minutes, and the trip takes 40 minutes, depending on the traffic. The price of the one-way ticket is 3,30 EUR. The return ticket costs 5,65 EUR. From Plaça Catalunya a taxi will take you to the Park Hotel in about 4 minutes.

By taxi: There are plenty of them, black with gold doors. Look for the line at your arrival terminal. Any trip to the city centre should take about 15-30 minutes, and cost about 15-19 EUR, depending on the traffic. Tipping is optional; they'll have included something for putting your luggage in the boot.

By train: The least convenient option. At the airport, go to the train station on the other side of the train-shaped bridge at Terminal B and take a train to Barcelona. Get out of the train at Plaça Catalunya. There is a train every 30 minutes, and the trip takes 25 minutes. The price of the one-way ticket is 1 EUR. This train is part of the integrated transport system of Barcelona: you can use the T10 card, purchasable from any station, for this trip. This card allows 10 combined journeys (1h 15m in any means of transport all around Barcelona) for 5,60 EUR.
